Start of hurricane season means planning for animal care during storms

With Hurricane season officially beginning June 1, Hugh Weathers, South Carolina's Commissioner of Agriculture, is encouraging livestock owners to prepare for potential severe weather.

Commissioner Weathers says people should not wait until there is an evacuation order to think about how they will deal with their livestock and other animals. Food, water, shelter, and possibly relocating animals are a top concern for animal and livestock owners.

"I encourage everyone to plan ahead to ensure their animals, both large and small, do not become victims of a storm," Weathers said.

He added there are numerous resources available to help farmers and their families plan ahead with their emergency plans for hurricane season.

Colorado State University's Department of Atmospheric Science is estimating there will be 11 named tropical storms and five of those will be hurricanes this year.

This year also marks the 20th anniversary of Hurricane Hugo striking the South Carolina coast as a Category 4 hurricane. Hugo made landfall just north of Charleston, September 22, 1989. Damage estimates were $7 billion in the mainland United States.

"Although South Carolina has not been hit directly since Hurricane Hugo, we still need to be vigilant and prepared for a hurricane or any natural disaster," Weathers said.

The South Carolina Department of Agriculture offers several tips for residents to think about while planning for a hurricane or any natural disaster.

- Ensure animal vaccinations and other health requirements are up-to-date.
- If possible, make arrangements in advance for evacuation of horses.
- Make sure trailers for carrying animals are current on maintenance.
- Keep food and potable water for animals on hand.
- Ensure livestock food stays dry. Wet food is no good for animals.
- Carry animal health and vaccination records with you during an evacuation.

For more information on evacuating livestock, contact Mary Ellen Tobias with the SC Department of Agriculture at 803-734-2210 or visit www.agriculture.sc.gov and click on Livestock Emergencies.

A little SPIN for Father's Day

From time to time, I have used this column to tell you about some folks involved in South Carolina agriculture. With Fathers Day this Sunday, let me tell you about a special father in Lexington County.

James Wildon "Mr. Red" Rutland is the eighty-four year old 'chief receiver' for 14 Carrot Whole Foods in Lexington, one of our newest members featuring Certified SC produce and products. He works with Ed Elbrecht, the owner and operator of 14 Carrot. Their mantra is "ignore your health and it will go away." We all know plenty of examples of that statement. 14 Carrot supports local agriculture and farmers by carrying Certified South Carolina grown produce, products, and meats throughout the year.

Customer service is Mr. Red's core value. Working every weekday from dawn-to-dusk, he makes sure the store is well-stocked with organic and locally grown produce and products. No stranger to the food business, Mr. Red owned and operated the Red Star Grocery on the corner of Green and Lincoln in Columbia for many years, so he has a knack for growing businesses.

Mr. Red also has a knack for growing vegetables. He is doing what is known as SPIN farming on a tiny speck of land at his home on Corley Mill Road in Lexington. SPIN is "Small Plot Intensive". It is a non-technical, easy-to-learn and inexpensive-to-implement vegetable farming system that makes it possible to earn significant income from land bases under an acre in size.

Watermelon field day to be held at Edisto REC

Clemson's Edisto Research and Education Center, located in Blackville, will hold its Watermelon Field Day on July 9. Registration starts at 8:45 a.m. at the office complex with the indoor session beginning at 9 a.m. in the auditorium. The Edisto REC is located at 64 Research Road in Blackville.

Indoor topics discussed will include tactical irrigation, disease control, and the Hidden Part of the Plant. Following the indoor sessions, there will be field tours to look at research projects and variety trials.

The field research tours will include numerous topics such as watermelon insects, tools to measure soil/water, EarthTec Sensors, and field research projects. The field day watermelon trial includes 30 seedless varieties and 10 mini-watermelon varieties.

For more meeting details and directions to the Edisto Station, please contact the Edisto REC at 803-284-3343 Ext. 273, or Brad Boozer with the SC Department of Agriculture at 803-734-2225, or your local Clemson Extension Agent. Certified Crop Advisor (CCA) and Pesticide License credits will also be offered.

A little SPIN

Mr. Red's SPIN method is unique. He grows his vegetables in hay bales which keeps out weeds and is also easier on the back. The method involves cutting two holes in each bale and filling the holes with a mixture of mushroom compost, peat moss, and planting soil. Drip irrigation is used so that just enough water is fed to each plant reducing water consumption. Then, he feeds the plants once a week with a special cricket manure tea that he makes. Yes, that's what he said. No pesticides or chemicals are used - only pepper spray. "It's not what you put on top, it's what you put underneath" is Mr. Red's practice.

After the bales work their magic, the hay is scattered as mulch in a small area of the garden where he grows potatoes and onions for spring harvest. Time is never wasted. Something is always growing.

Mr. Red has about 70 tomato plants in a very small space. They each produce about ¾ of a bushel of organic tomatoes which he markets to 14 Carrot. That's a profitable small farming venture for Mr. Red. And, it's great way for first generation farmers to enter the business because it removes two big barriers to entry - land and capital. SPIN farming is also a way for established farmers to diversify or downsize.

Marah Wanda Rutland, Mr. Red's daughter, has written a book about her father's life, Parables from the Red Star Grocery. The book is dedicated to Mr. Red and his wife, Marah Black Rutland, "whose lives have been spent feeding the hungry and guiding us on the path of My Father's World." What a great way to celebrate Father's Day!

Speaking of Father's Day, here is a tidbit to impress your friends. Next year is the 100th anniversary of Fathers Day. Credit for initiating the observance is given to Sonora Smart Dodd of Spokane, Washington. She did it to honor her father, who was a farmer, and who raised six children on his own after the death of his wife. Happy Father's Day.

Hugh E. Weathers, Commissioner

COC Elections - Nominate and Vote

Farmer and rancher candidate nominations began June 15, 2009, for local Farm Service Agency (FSA) county committees and continues through August 3, 2009. Elections will take place this fall. Nomination forms, FSA-669A, are available at your local FSA Office and on the web at <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/elections>.

FSA county committee members make decisions on disaster and conservation programs, emergency programs, commodity price support loan programs and other important agricultural issues.

Ballots will be mailed to eligible voters November 6. Return ballots to local county offices either via mail or in person by December 7.

USDA State Technical Committee to Meet

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) will host a State Technical Committee (STC) meeting on July 1, 2009, at the Farm Bureau Building in Cayce, SC, at 724 Knox Abbott Drive.

The meeting is open to the public and will begin at 10 a.m. Chaired by NRCS State Conservationist Niles Glasgow, the committee provides recommendations to the state conservationist on a number of issues concerning Farm Bill program delivery.

The 2008 Farm Bill increased the agricultural and forestry involvement in the State Technical Committee, expanded the responsibilities of Local Working Groups, and created standardized operations for committees nationwide.

Please confirm attendance no later than June 26, 2009, by calling 803-765-5682, or email angela.yarborough@sc.usda.gov. For more information, contact Erica Westbrook, SC NRCS State Resource Conservationist, erica.westbrook@sc.usda.gov, 803-765-5685.

June Dairy Month Banquet

June is Dairy Month

Mozzarella Pepper Salsa

- 1 block ( 8 ounces) Mozzarella cheese, diced into ¼ inch-cubes
- 1 cup diced roasted red peppers
- 1 green onions, cut diagonally into thin slices
- 3 tablespoons thinly sliced fresh basil
- 2 teaspoons extra-virgin olive oil
- freshly ground pepper to taste
- 1 head Belgian endive, separated into leaves

Combine Mozzarella cheese, red peppers, green onion, fresh basil, and olive oil in medium bowl; mix well. Season salsa with black pepper. Cover and refrigerate 1 hour or overnight. Serve on endive leaves with whole grain crackers. Yield: 3 cups.

Substitute Idea: Spoon salsa on baguette-style whole grain bread. Broil until cheese begins to melt and edges of bread begin to brown.
